ACTIVITY

Walk 8,000–10,000 steps. Total rest is fine too. Rest is when muscle actually gets built.

READ ONCE, THEN CHECK WEEKLY

HOW THE PLAN WORKS

The week

DAY	SESSION	CARDIO
Mon	Push A · Chest & Shoulders	15 min incline walk
Tue	Pull A · Back Width & Biceps	15 min incline walk
Wed	Legs A · Squat Strength	10 min easy
Thu	Push B · Shoulders & Triceps	15 min incline walk
Fri	Pull B · Deadlift & Back Thickness	15 min incline walk
Sat	Legs B · Glutes, Lunges & Conditioning	10 min intervals
Sun	Rest & Recover	8–10k steps

Push / Pull / Legs, twice a week. Every muscle gets trained twice, which is the sweet spot for building muscle. Weights build and protect muscle; the cardio and food control the fat loss.

About belly fat

> You can't burn fat from one spot. Crunches build the abs underneath, but the fat on top comes off when your whole body loses fat. That means: a calorie deficit, enough protein, daily steps and sleep. Track your waist, not just your weight.

12-week progression

WEEKS	PHASE	WHAT TO DO
1–2	Learn	Pick weights you could lift 3–4 more reps with. Focus on form. Ask a gym trainer to watch your squat and deadlift once.
3–8	Build	Stop each set 1–2 reps before you'd fail. Add weight using the rule below.
9	Deload	Same exercises, 2 sets each, about 10% lighter. Lets joints recover.
10–12	Push	Keep progressing. Add 5 min to each cardio session if you have time left (stay under 75 min total).

The rule for adding weight: each exercise has a rep range, like 8–10. When you hit the top of the range (10) on every set with good form, increase the weight next time: about 2.5 kg on presses and rows, 5 kg on squats and deadlifts, the next dumbbell up on smaller lifts. Write your weights in your phone notes.

Your daily targets

Body weight (kg)

89

2300–2500
calories / day to start

142–178 g
protein / day

3.1 L
water / day

Starting estimate for someone training 6 days a week, about 400–500 calories below maintenance. Adjust using your waist: if it hasn't dropped after 2 weeks, eat about 150–200 fewer calories a day or add 2,000 steps.

Food without supplements

Build every meal on the plate rule: half vegetables, a quarter protein, a quarter carbs (roti, rice, oats, potato), plus a thumb of fat (oil, ghee, nuts).

PROTEIN FOOD	SERVING	PROTEIN
Chicken breast	100 g cooked	~31 g
Fish (rohu, surmai, salmon)	100 g cooked	~22 g
Whole eggs	2 eggs	~12 g
Egg whites	4 whites	~14 g
Soya chunks	50 g dry	~26 g
Paneer (low-fat if possible)	100 g	~18 g
Hung curd / Greek yogurt	200 g	~20 g
Tofu (firm)	100 g	~13 g
Chana / rajma, cooked	1 cup	~14 g
Dal, cooked	1 cup	~9 g
Milk	250 ml	~8 g

Sample day

MEAL	NON-VEG	VEGETARIAN
Breakfast	3 eggs + 1 multigrain toast or 1 roti, fruit	Paneer bhurji (100 g) + 1 roti, fruit
Lunch	150 g chicken curry, 1 cup rice, dal, salad	Soya chunk curry, 2 roti, dal, salad
Pre-workout	Banana + handful of roasted chana, 60–90 min before
Post-workout	200 g hung curd or 250 ml milk
Dinner	Grilled fish or chicken, sabzi, 1 roti	Tofu or paneer tikka, sabzi, 1 roti, dal

Cut or limit:

- Sugary drinks, packaged juice, sweetened chai/coffee beyond 1 a day
- Fried snacks (samosa, pakora, chips), mithai, bakery items
- Alcohol: it stalls fat loss more than almost anything else
- Late-night snacking. Close the kitchen 2 hours before bed.

Recovery basics

- Sleep 7–8 hours. Short sleep raises hunger and lowers muscle gain.
- 8,000–10,000 steps every day, including gym days.
- Water: aim for pale-yellow urine; more on sweaty days.
- Sore for more than 3 days or joints aching? Take an extra rest day and use the deload week early.

Track progress

- Weekly: waist measurement at the belly button, first thing in the morning
